STYLING & DESIGN

What is the difference between a wedding designer and a wedding stylist?

Wedding Designers are typically involved at least 6 months prior to wedding day. Focusing on the overall aesthetic and layout of the wedding, including themes, colour schemes, and decor elements. They work closely with couples to create a cohesive design concept that reflects their vision.

Wedding Stylists, on the other hand, typically involved one month to two weeks prior to wedding day, focusing on the finer details of the wedding decor, such as table settings, floral arrangements, and signage. They ensure that every element of the wedding design is beautifully curated and coordinated.

How far in advance should I book a wedding designer?

It is recommended to book a wedding designer/stylist at least 6-12 months before your wedding date to ensure availability and allow ample time for planning and coordination.

What is the typical process of working with a wedding designer?

The process usually begins with an initial consultation to discuss your vision, preferences, and budget. As designers will then create a design proposal outlining the overall concept, decor elements, and estimated costs. Collaborative meetings and site visits may follow to finalise details and make any necessary adjustments.

When is it necessary to hire a wedding designer or wedding stylist?

When the venue does not offer any assistance with setting up or if the venue is a complete blank canvas, it is highly recommended to hire a wedding designer or stylist. These professionals have the expertise to transform a space into a beautiful and cohesive setting that reflects the couple's vision. They can help with everything from creating a color scheme and layout to selecting decor elements and coordinating vendors. By hiring a wedding designer or stylist, brides can ensure that their wedding day is visually stunning and seamlessly executed, even in a challenging venue situation.

PLANNING & COORDINATION

What is the difference between a wedding planner and a wedding coordinator?

Wedding planners focus on the logistical aspects of the event, such as budget management, vendor coordination, and timeline creation, a wedding designer is primarily responsible for the aesthetic elements of the wedding. A wedding designer works closely with couples to bring their vision to life through creative design concepts, decor selection, and styling. Think of a wedding designer as the artist who paints the canvas of your wedding day, while a wedding planner acts as the conductor orchestrating the entire event. Both roles are essential in creating a truly unforgettable wedding experience.

A Wedding Planner is typically involved in the entire wedding planning process from start to finish. They assist with budget management, vendor selection, design concepts, and overall coordination of the event. Wedding planners work closely with the couple to bring their vision to life and handle all aspects of the planning process.

A Wedding Coordinator is primarily responsible for overseeing the logistical details on the day of the wedding. They ensure that everything runs smoothly according to the timeline, coordinate with vendors, and handle any last-minute issues that may arise. Wedding coordinators focus on executing the plans that have already been put in place by the couple or wedding planner, rather than being involved in the planning process from the beginning.

Do I need a wedding planner if my venue provides a coordinator?

While some venues may provide a coordinator to assist with on-site logistics, a wedding planner offers comprehensive planning services that go beyond just day-of coordination. A wedding planner can help you with vendor selection, design and decor planning, budget management, and much more to ensure your wedding day is truly special and stress-free.

Do planners and coordinators setup and style a wedding?

Wedding planners and coordinators play a crucial role in overseeing the logistics and coordination of all aspects of your wedding day. While we are not typically responsible for setting up and styling the decor ourselves, our primary focus is to ensure that all suppliers and vendors involved in your wedding are executing their responsibilities seamlessly. By delegating tasks and managing timelines, we ensure that the team of stylists, florists, and other vendors have clear direction and support to bring your vision to life. As the main point of contact, question answerer, and overall "boss" of the day, we handle any issues that may arise, make important decisions on your behalf, and ensure that everything runs smoothly, allowing you to relax and enjoy your special day without any added stress.

How far in advance should I book a wedding coordinator?

Booking a wedding coordinator 12 - 6 months prior to wedding day is advisable, to ensure they are not fully booked for the season. However, a wedding coordinators typically become involved in the wedding planning process approximately one month to two weeks before the wedding day, depending on the size and complexity of the event. In the case of a full weekend wedding, this timeline is adjusted accordingly. The wedding coordinator will advise the bride and groom on the most suitable approach for taking over all logistical aspects to facilitate a seamless transition and ensure a well-managed wedding.

How far in advance should I book a wedding planner?

It is recommended to book a wedding planner as soon as possible, ideally 9-12 months before your wedding date. This allows ample time for the planner to help you secure vendors, create a timeline, and ensure all details are in place for your special day.

FLORALS

How far in advance should I book my wedding florist?

It is recommended to book your wedding florist as soon as possible, ideally 6-12 months before your wedding date. This allows ample time for consultations, design planning, and securing the availability of your preferred florist. Some popular wedding dates may require booking even further in advance to ensure availability.

Can I request specific flowers for my wedding, even if they are out of season?

While some flowers may be out of season during your wedding date, many florists can source blooms from around the world or suggest suitable alternatives that are in season. Keep in mind that out-of-season flowers will come at a higher cost due to importation fees.

Can my family help with flowers on my wedding day?

At Fabulous Fusion, we uphold a strict policy that prohibits the involvement of family or friends in our floral design process. We take immense pride in our work, meticulously crafting each petal and stem according to a carefully planned design. Our team of creative professionals collaborates closely to ensure seamless and effective execution, enabling us to deliver our signature magic.

Can I take my flowers home?

Certainly, you are welcome to do so. It is important to notify us in advance to ensure that the pack down of flowers is carried out efficiently. If the bride wishes to take home the flowers, she must provide her own flower buckets for this purpose.

Why does Fabulous Fusion work with a minimum cost on floral design?

Floral design is a collaborative effort that involves a dedicated team of creatives working together in the days leading up to and following the wedding. Tasks include sourcing flowers, preparing (sometimes hundreds of) stems, cleaning leaves, prepping decor, designing arrangements, creating bouquets, and much more. Additionally, operational expenses such as water, electricity, insurance, and rent fees are essential to sustain the business. Beyond creating beautiful floral arrangements, florists must consider the logistics, hours, and expenses involved to support their families and maintain a successful business. It is crucial to ensure that our pricing covers every detail to support our livelihood and business operations effectively.

Do you provide flower mockups?

Yes, we do provide flower mockups for our clients. Our flower mockup service is an essential part of the design process, ensuring that your floral arrangements are exactly as you envision them for your special occasion. It's important to note that the cost of a flower mockup will usually be the same as the flower quote, as it requires the same amount of time, labor, and design expertise as the final arrangements for a wedding or event.

While not all flowers may be available for mockups, rest assured that we will always do our best to use alternative blooms to achieve the same look and feel you desire. Additionally, our flower mockups can be linked to a table mockup as part of your overall design and styling package, providing a cohesive and visually stunning presentation for your wedding.
